

Nicolas Charbit
Thomas Moretto
Editors

Douglas H. Ginsburg

An Antitrust Professor on the Bench Liber Amicorum

Volume II

Jonathan B. Baker, Antonio Bavasso, Joseph J. Bial,
Darryl Biggar, Timothy Cornell, Allan Fels AO, Eleanor M. Fox,
John Friel, Andrew I. Gavil, Ting Gong, Roxann E. Henry,
William E. Kovacic, Daniel Muheme, Susan Ning,
Paul O'Brien, Maureen K. Ohlhausen, Jorge Padilla,
Randolph Tritell, Koren W. Wong-Ervin, Tianjie Zhang

In this second volume of the Douglas H. Ginsburg Liber Amicorum, the reader will find a series of essays no less brilliant than those in the first. Emphasis is, rightly, placed on Judge Ginsburg’s contribution to the structured analysis of antitrust problems, whether in terms of the rule of reason, the shifting burden of proof, or the assessment of potentially anticompetitive mergers. The volume carries articles by distinguished contributors on some of the most important and topical questions in modern antitrust, and in doing so salutes the outstanding career of Judge Ginsburg, and adds significantly to the scholarship with which his name is already synonymous.

Foreword by Sir Christopher Bellamy QC

” Judge Ginsburg is a tireless champion of economic freedom and rigor in government decision-making. It was one of the great honors of my tenure as Assistant Attorney General to present Judge Ginsburg with the John Sherman Award- the highest antitrust honor given by the Department of Justice. Judge Ginsburg’s career in public service and his scholarship have shaped the way that we at the Antitrust Division understand and practice our enforcement mission. I can think of several times when his way of approaching a complex problem inspired my own. He brought economic rigor to the Antitrust Division during his own time as AAG, and the same value is apparent in his opinions on the D.C. Circuit. Whether as antitrust enforcers or practitioners, we hold ourselves to a higher standard of explaining economic incentives because, in part, Judge Ginsburg taught us we must. “

Makan Delrahim, Assistant Attorney General, Antitrust Division, United States Department of Justice

” This volume is chock full of extraordinary essays in honor of an extraordinary man. For those of you who are or aspire to be thought leaders in the broad field of antitrust and competition policy, this is a volume that will not soon be out of date and that will occupy an important space on your bookshelf, be it for hardback books or digital books. Concurrences has done its usual splendid job bringing this volume into fruition, and at a time when competition policy has become as important as it has ever been in the past century. “

John DeQ. Briggs, Partner, Axinn

DETAILS

Pages: 244
 Price: 190 € - 230 $ - 170 £
 ISBN: 978-1939007-68-1

Send your order to
 Institut de droit de la concurrence
 19 avenue Jean Aicard
 75011 - Paris

Institute of Competition Law
 61 - 63 Rochester Place
 NW1 9JU - London

Institute of Competition Law
 106 W 32nd St - Suite 144
 10001 - New York

ORDER

Full Name: _____
 e-mail: _____
 Institution: _____
 Street: _____
 City: _____
 Zip Code: _____
 Country: _____

www.concurrences.com
orders@concurrences.com

